About the host university: MICEFA is a consortium of most of the Universities of Paris and its region. It was created in 1985 to promote cultural and scientific cooperation between France and North America. Our North American partners include over 80 universities in the United States and Canada. Exchanges last for one semester or an academic year. Two- to four-month exchanges are arranged in the field of Medicine. For the 2006-07 academic years, MICEFA has facilitated the exchange of approximately 350 students and scholars. MICEFA serves as a tool for enhancing North American/French academic cooperation. Unlike traditional "island" study abroad programs, MICEFA provides students access to a genuine experience in a French university with French and European students
