LEARN BASIC CHINESE AT USF

The USF Confucius Institute offers a 4-week Chinese language class to USF employees and community members in the summer of 2015. The instructors are from our partner Qingdao University in China (Ms. WANG Yanfeng and Ms. HU Jingxue), who have experience teaching Chinese as a foreign language. They can cater to your needs whether you have no background of Chinese or have learned it for some time. There is no fee to attend the class but registration is required.

The Basic Chinese class will help you learn survival Chinese, so you can greet the Chinese visitors on USF campus (more than just nihao) or enjoy yourself better when you have a chance to visit China or Chinese-speaking regions. Learners will focus on speaking and listening about the following topics, along with some activities related to Chinese culture.

- Greetings (more than nihao) and departing
- Introduction about yourself and your family
- Asking for directions
- Asking about someone (e.g., work and health)
- Asking about something (e.g., time and place)

- Time: May 4 - 27, 2015, Mondays & Wednesdays, 5:00-6:00pm
- Place: Chinese Cultural Center – HMS 214 (Architecture Building)

To register for this class, please send an e-mail with your contact information and affiliation to Chinese@usf.edu. We plan to limit the class size to 15, based on first-come first-serve basis.

USF Confucius Institute supports academic programs related to Chinese language and culture, sponsor cultural events at USF and in Tampa Bay area, and provide technical assistance to K-12 Chinese programs in Florida. To learn more about us, visit http://global.usf.edu/confucius.
