

USF College of Public Health and Confucius Institute proudly sponsor

An Introduction to Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM)

When: Spring 2016, Fridays, 10:30 a.m. - 12:00 noon
(First session on January 22 for 12 weeks)

Where: USF College of Public Health, CPH Room 2018

Who: Individuals interested in TCM and alternative medicine

What: A series of non-credit earning, weekly sessions (90 minutes each for 12 weeks) to demonstrate the foundation and modern practice of TCM, including special sessions on the practice of TCM in the United States. Discussion topics will range from the concepts of Yin-Yang and the Five Elements, Qi, blood and body fluid, to acupuncture and meridians, and to special topics on the status and qualification standards and policy of TCM in America.

Registration: Please complete an online Registration here by January 20 (Wednesday), 2016. A $50 registration fee is required to cover the cost of class materials. Payment by a credit card only.

For further information please contact Ms. Liping Yan: lipingyan@mail.usf.edu or visit USF TCM Class website

About the Professor

Professor Li Liu (liliu1@mail.usf.edu) is a Chief Physician of Integrated Chinese and Western Medicine at the Department of Mental Health, Gansu TCM University in Lanzhou, China. She will bring a wealth of knowledge of TCM to the classroom based upon her over 30-year academic, clinical, and science writing experience in internal medicine of TCM.